Program Notes

The Airships depicts a large floating city and the various flying machines that travel upon it. The piece is inspired by the composer's childhood love of fantasy and adventure novels. The presentation of the city in the lush introduction should have an otherworldly and mystical feel to it. This section slowly builds and leads to the presentation of the main theme at m. 9. This theme is joined by a rhythmically active accompaniment in the lower voices at m. 19 and leads to the B-section at m. 29. This section should be played in a flowing lyrical style, contrasting to the rhythmic activity of the previous section. A slightly different version of the main theme returns at m. 37, which leads to an extended B-section at m. 45. The crescendo at m. 54 pushes into a transitional section that begins in the following measure. This material should be played in a bold, strident manner. The triumphant return of the main theme occurs at m. 59. This is followed by a dramatic conclusion that begins at m. 66 and pushes to the end of the piece.
