About the Composition

Joy to the Season is an exciting holiday overture for the advanced concert band. It is a perfect opener or closer to the annual holiday concert. Incorporating fresh and exciting rhythms into favorite holiday carols, this overture includes Hark! The Herald Angels Sing!, Patapan, It Came Upon the Midnight Clear, and Joy to the World.

The music begins with a joyous tapestry of sounds reminiscent of Respighi's Pines of Rome. Bring out the accented eighth notes in the woodwinds and the broad sustained notes in the low voices. The alto saxophones and horns drive the melody of Hark! The Herald Angels Sing! throughout this opening. When the tone shifts a bit in m. 34, the eighth notes should have a little length to them (and not too short). Be sure to match phrasing and articulation in the woodwind melody. Take time with the alto saxophone solo during the transition to the Patapan segment.

Patapan begins with a syncopated exchange between the low woodwinds and the clarinets. Perform this in the style of pizzicato strings. The duet in the flutes that follows at m. 71 should be exotic, light and airy. Lean into the dissonance and exaggerate the dynamics in the low brass in mm. 78-79 and mm. 82-83. There's a touch of Harry Potter in the treatment at m. 86 that leads into the big presentation at m. 95. Here, we enjoy a setting in the style of noted French composer Camille Saint-Saëns.

After a brief pause, we venture into "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear". Bring out the swells in the dynamics during the introduction. Cues from mm. 121-135 provide some options for multiple instrumentations. Bring out the inner moving lines that compliment the melody in the oboe. Take some time going into the climactic moment at m. 144. The warm chord at m. 159 should blend seamlessly into the "Joy to the World" section.

Fragments of Joy to the World provide splashes of color to the final segment of the overture. At m. 177, play the sixteenth notes as smooth as possible to ensure a blanket of sound beneath the oboe and flute solos. The brass entrance at m. 187 change the tone of the arrangement and lead back into the joyous tapestry of sounds at m. 199. Keep the energy and motion moving forward all the way to the rousing finish.
