Siyahamba

Traditional

Arranged by David Marlatt

This is a traditional South African folksong that has been adapted and arranged for brass quintet. The original a capella version seemed to be missing some drive so some authentic rhythmic backgrounds were added to represent drums and other percussion instruments. This is exciting music to add something really different to your next concert.

This must be played very rhythmically but lightly. It should never get heavy or loud. All backgrounds should be played under the tune.
