NOTES TO THE CONDUCTOR

Centerpiece is a jazz standard written in 1958 by the legendary jazz trumpeter Harry "Sweets" Edison. Due to the somewhat repetitive melody, the piece lends itself very well to the beginning jazz ensemble. Optional parts included in this arrangement are flute, clarinet, F horn, baritone T.C./tenor sax, tuba, and vibraphone.

There are four short solos for tenor sax, trumpet, alto sax, and drums that are written out; however, simple chord symbols are included to encourage some improvisation. You may wish to extend the section at m. 29 in order to include additional soloists.

For much of the chart, the piano part should be played as written. However, in the section from mm. 29–38, encourage your pianist to experiment with some simple "comping" using the chord symbols provided. Varying voicings is a good place to begin the process. I suggest listening to the demo recording of this chart as an example plus any Count Basie recording as well.

In the 3rd trombone part, the last note of mm. 24 and 52 should be played in 6th position to facilitate the low Cs in the next measure.

Have fun with this one!
